

Ιωάννης Γκάνος, MRICS, Γενικός Διευθυντής, Alpha Real Estate Management & Investments

Ioannis Ganos joined Alpha Bank in 2017 as an Advisor on Real Estate. In 2018, he became the General Manager of Alpha Real Estate Management & Investments, Alpha Bank's new subsidiary responsible for Real Estate Owned (REO). Before that, he worked for Bluehouse Capital, a private equity real estate fund management firm, as Senior Investment Director, responsible for sourcing, structuring, and executing acquisitions and exits in CEE and SEE. Before that, he worked as a Real Estate Associate for the Technical Olympic Group, a major Athens Stock Exchange-listed Greek construction and real estate conglomerate, including an NYSE-listed subsidiary. Before this, he was an Associate of OTE Estate S.A., the real estate subsidiary of Hellenic Telecommunications Organization (OTE S.A.), where he was involved in strategic planning and re-organizing the group's corporate real estate portfolio. Mr. Ganos started his career as a research associate for the Foundation of Economic and Industrial Research (IOBE) in the Department of Public Finance. He has been a chartered surveyor (MRICS) since 2008 and has served as Chairman of the board of the RICS Hellas (Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors) for seven years. Mr. Ganos holds a B.Sc. in Economic and Regional Development from Panteion University and an M.Sc. in Real Estate Economics and Finance from the London School of Economics and Political Science. He is a graduate of the PDC in Innovations in Real Estate Finance from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has published academic and professional articles and co-authored the book "Hidden Economy and Tax evasion in Greece" in 2001 by Papazisis Publications.